15,707 from Crimea

174,380 from east Ukraine

Totals per oblast[1]

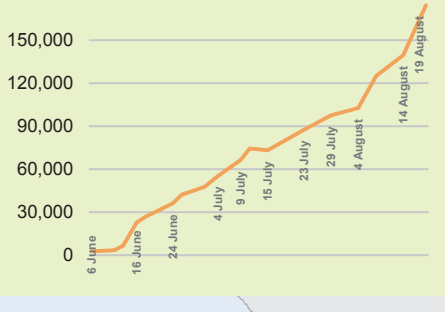
- 1 to 750
- 751 to 2,500
- 2,501 to 5,000
- 5,001 to 40,000

External displacement:

244,519 seeking legal status[2]

92,259 asylum applications

92% of IDPs reported are from east Ukraine



The boundaries and names shown and the designations used on this map do not imply official endorsement or acceptance by the United Nations. Internal Displacement: Due to the lack of a centralized system of registration, the real figure of IDPs is unknown and is likely to be higher, as local authorities and civil society register only those who approach them. Various organizations report that some displaced persons from the East are reluctant to apply to the authorities because they fear retribution, want to maintain a low profile, and moreover, see little benefit in identifying themselves as there is no special reception procedures established for them. [1] No information available for Luhansk. Figures reported to UNHCR by local government and NGOs (19 August 2014). External displacement: Figures reported to UNHCR by Government Asylum Authorities as of 2 July for Romania, 15 August for Republic of Moldova, 16 July for Hungary, 19 August for Belarus, and 18 August for Poland, and reported by the Russian Federal Migration Service as of 8 August for the Russian Federation. [2] Overall figure also includes Germany and Czech Republic. |
