Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (UPR), established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 of 18 June 2007, held its sixteenth session from 22 April to 3 May 2013. The review of Bangladesh was held at the 11th meeting, on 29 April 2013. The delegation of Bangladesh was headed by Her Excellency Dr. Dipu Moni, Minister for Foreign Affairs. At its 17th meeting, held on 02 May 2013, the Working Group adopted the report on Bangladesh.
2. On 14 January 2013, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (Troika) to facilitate the review of Bangladesh: Czech Republic, Ethiopia and Pakistan.
3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Bangladesh:
 - (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/16/BGD/1);
 - (b) A compilation prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/16/BGD/2);
 - (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/16/BGD/3).
4. A list of questions prepared in advance by the Czech Republic, Germany, Ireland, Liechtenstein, Mexico, Montenegro, the Netherlands, Norway, Slovenia, Spain and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was transmitted to Bangladesh through the troika. These questions are available on the extranet of the UPR.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. Foreign Minister of Bangladesh Dr. Dipu Moni, MP, started her presentation by expressing profound sadness at heavy loss of lives at collapse of a building in Bangladesh.
6. She said that the Grand Alliance Government led by Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina focused on building a robust normative and institutional framework during the last four years to ensure that all citizens enjoyed all human rights as guaranteed in the Constitution. She highlighted the 15th Amendment to the Constitution that restored the Fundamental Principles of State Policy for building a democratic, secular and socially just and inclusive Bangladesh. She underlined the measures taken to enhance the independence and effectiveness of the National Election Commission to hold free, fair and impartial national elections. The Foreign Minister informed that in the last four years the Parliament enacted 196 legislations, related to human rights one way or other, and ensured the function of its Standing Committees as effective bipartisan watchdogs. She also enumerated the steps taken to ensure the independence of judiciary and enhance the functional independence, effectiveness and credibility of the National Human Rights Commission, Anti-Corruption Commission and Information Commission.
7. The Foreign Minister reaffirmed her Government's unequivocal stand on "zero tolerance" against human rights violation by the law enforcement agencies as well as on their impunity. She said that any incident of death during exchange of fire between law enforcement agencies and criminals is duly investigated as per existing laws and Codes of Conduct. She expressed concern over the rising trend of abduction under false personification of the law enforcement agencies (LEAs) and said that more than 540 such criminals had already been arrested. She reaffirmed the Government's commitment to end the culture of impunity and recounted the initiatives taken to conclude the trials of the self-proclaimed killers of the country's founding President and members of his family, and to hold the ongoing trials of the local perpetrators who committed crimes against humanity and genocide during the 1971 War of Liberation through domestic tribunals, pursuing the principle of complementarity under the Rome Statute. The Foreign Minister also reiterated her Government's commitment to build a secular society and not to countenance any threat and attacks against the country's religious minorities such as the attacks on Buddhists in Ramu the previous year or the recent attacks against the Hindu community. She highlighted the Constitutional recognition given to the country's ethnic groups and tribal communities through the 15th Amendment and the measures taken to implement some of the critical issues under the Chittagong Hill Tracts Peace Accords (CHT).

8. The Minister highlighted the role of the National Women Development Policy, 2011 in advancing women's empowerment and the stringent laws on domestic violence prevention, anti-trafficking and pornography control to combat violence against women. She underlined the Government's success in reducing child and infant mortality and current focus on increasing retention rate in schools, combating malnutrition and stunting, and eliminating child labour from hazardous sectors. The Foreign Minister referred to the National Labour Policy and the recent amendments to the Labour Act of 2006 to ensure better workplace safety and collective bargaining for workers. She also raised the human rights concerns of migrant workers and flagged the Expatriates Welfare Act, 2013 to promote their rights and well-being. The Foreign Minister elaborated on the concrete measures taken by her Government to protect the rights of the vulnerable and marginalized groups in society, including persons with disabilities and refugees, among others.

9. The Minister underscored the impact of poverty on people's full enjoyment of human rights and reaffirmed the Government's commitment to the Right to Development as an essential precondition for human rights. She enumerated the positive strides made during the last four years to reduce poverty by 10 per cent, enhance food security, improve public health through community clinics, and increase investment in the education and information technology (IT) sectors. The Minister also underlined Bangladesh's challenges as a climate-vulnerable country and mentioned the Human Rights Council Resolution steered by Bangladesh and the Philippines in 2012 on Climate Change and Human Rights in the context of climate justice. She also appreciated the role of civil society and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) in complementing the Government's development efforts and the media's contribution to expanding democratic space for citizens' participation. The Minister said her Government would continue to promote human rights education and awareness to ingrain a culture of human rights in society. Finally, she said that during the review period the Government had laid the groundwork for change that would enable Bangladesh to take off to the next stage of development and emancipation.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

10. During the interactive dialogue, 97 delegations made statements; among them, 94 delegations made recommendations. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in chapter II of the present report.

11. Most delegations expressed their deepest condolences and sympathy for the victims of the building collapse in Bangladesh and the Minister thanked them.

12. Montenegro expressed its deep concern that capital punishment might be imposed on individuals between 16 and 18 years old. It asked whether Bangladesh had taken any concrete measures in order to implement the recommendations of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) in this regard.
13. Morocco stated that Bangladesh had obtained very good results for achievement of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), especially those related to health, gender equality and human development. Morocco was also satisfied with measures taken to fight against poverty and hunger.
14. Nepal appreciated substantial efforts made by Bangladesh for the consolidation of democracy. It had also made significant achievements in reducing poverty and improving the living standards of its people. It took note of progress made in gender and health related MDGs.
15. The Netherlands expressed concern at violence against women, impunity of perpetrators of these crimes, persistence of extrajudicial executions, cases of torture and brutality.
16. Nicaragua highlighted that the adoption of new laws expedited the implementation of the programme Vision 2021 leading to other national policies aimed at the full implementation of human rights.
17. Nigeria commended Bangladesh for the effort it put into preparing the report and for the progress made in promoting and protecting human rights in the country.
18. Norway mentioned arrest and killing of a number of journalists during the last years. It was also concerned that young bloggers, which had added positively to an open and broad-based debated, had become victims of death threats.
19. Oman noted the Government's ratification of most international human rights instruments and cooperation with human rights mechanisms.
20. Pakistan welcomed the enactment of 196 legislations, including the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) Act, the Domestic Violence Act and the Human Trafficking Prevention and Control Act. It was hopeful that further efforts would be taken to strengthen NHRC, and appreciated efforts in socio-economic areas.
21. Peru highlighted the national education policy as well as progress in the reduction of poverty, maternal and infant mortality and gender equality in primary and secondary education. It made recommendations.
22. The Philippines appreciated Bangladesh's migrant rights protection and enhancement programmes and policies, most notably the establishment of the Expatriates Welfare Bank. It valued its partnership with Bangladesh in advancing migrants' rights.
23. Portugal welcomed the progress in achieving some gender- and health-related MDGs as well as cooperation with the United Nations Development Programme for capacity-building in treaty body reporting. It also welcomed the ruling of the Supreme Court against corporal punishment in schools. The Court also stated that legislation should be reformed to prohibit corporal punishment in the home and other settings.
24. Qatar commended the Government's legislative and political reforms and noted measures taken for the development of children's education. It highlighted the creation of the Bangladesh Tribunal for International Crime Tribunal.
25. The Republic of Korea welcomed the passing of 196 positive legislative items related to human rights issues. It was, however, concerned about violence against women and girls, including domestic violence and forced marriage.

26. The Republic of Moldova recognized the measures undertaken to prevent and protect women and girls against violence, including domestic violence, rape and sexual harassment.
27. Romania commended ratification of the Rome Statute on the International Criminal Court and adoption of a series of policies with a clear positive impact in the areas of child labour and protection of domestic workers.
28. The Russian Federation noted Bangladesh's success in promoting and protecting human rights and its willingness to cooperate with international monitoring mechanisms and comply with international human rights treaties.
29. Rwanda welcomed the transformation of National Human Rights into a primary institution with a clear mandate to ensure the implementation of the human rights. It also noted significant reforms undertaken to ensure the independence of the Anti-Corruption Commission, which gained public confidence.
30. Saudi Arabia noted successes in some MDGs related to health and human development, despite limited resources. It highlighted the acceleration of development programmes targeting the poor and the needy.
31. Senegal emphasized establishment of a National Human Rights Commission, normative and institutional undertakings to consolidate institutional and legal mechanisms related to human rights.
32. Sierra Leone noted the passing of no less than 196 Parliamentary Acts, which addressed the political, socio-economic and cultural rights of the people, establishment of the Human Rights Commission, and ratification of several Conventions, among others in addition to consolidation of democracy.
33. Singapore noted putting in place of a code of conduct and rules of engagement for law enforcing agencies and the armed forces to prevent impunity and human rights violations.
34. Slovakia noted Bangladesh' efforts to advance in human rights and commended the ratification of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD), the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (OP-CRPD) and the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (ICC).
35. Slovenia welcomed Bangladesh' role in promoting the right to safe drinking water and sanitation, and commended the ratification of the Rome Statute. It noted that Dalits suffered all kind of discrimination.
36. Somalia congratulated Bangladesh for its achievements.
37. South Africa noted the National Education Policy, prioritizing and improving the right to education, and the National Sanitation Strategy to achieve universal sanitation. It acknowledged reforms and training by the judiciary, police and law enforcement agencies.
38. Spain praised Bangladesh for reforms carried out since 2009 and in particular for its commitment to the right to water and sanitation as active members of the Blue Group.
39. Sri Lanka welcomed Bangladesh's progress in human rights including (a) the adoption of 196 pieces of human rights legislation; (b) measures against terrorism, money laundering and human trafficking; (c) the positive results of its inclusive economic growth strategy; and (d) the health sector progress, especially in reducing the child mortality rate.
40. The State of Palestine welcomed adoption of the Rome Statute and the Committee on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of their Families (CMW). It commended the 2010 Act on Domestic Violence, the 2012 Act on Human Trafficking and the 2011 National Policy on Child Development and the national policy on education.

41. The Sudan welcomed human rights promotion in Bangladesh and in particular separation of the judiciary and the executive, as well as policies aiming at empowering women and eradicating child labour.

42. Sweden urged Bangladesh to improve women and girls' situation. It noted extrajudicial killings and torture by security forces. It encouraged Bangladesh to restrain the use of force by the police during political manifestations.

43. Switzerland was preoccupied with a number of cases of forced disappearance and extrajudicial executions, as well as the situation of minorities. It also expressed its opposition to the death penalty in all circumstances.

44. Thailand welcomed Bangladesh's efforts to address human rights, particularly of vulnerable and marginalized groups, but urged it to address religious and cultural intolerance. Thailand commended progress in improving children's and women's health. It welcomed the commitment to cooperate with international human rights mechanisms.

45. Tunisia encouraged Bangladesh to accelerate the process of making its national human rights institution in conformity with the Paris Principle and address a standing invitation to the mandate holders of the Human Rights Council, among others.

46. Turkey acknowledged the improvement of living standards, the rule of law and women's empowerment, along with economic and social developments. It welcomed human rights national legislation and policies, the National Human Rights Commission, and cooperation with international human rights mechanisms and in combating human trafficking and terrorism.

47. Turkmenistan welcomed Bangladesh's efforts to strengthen its legislative, institutional and policy mechanisms to protect human rights. It commended the efforts to bring its national legislation in line with international obligations.

48. Ukraine commended Bangladesh' progress in strengthening the human rights protection and promotion, particularly measures to promote women's rights and their involvement in public life.

49. The United Arab Emirates commended the fight against poverty, implementation of plans to provide health care, to create jobs, and to secure food, drinking water and sanitation. It noted the establishment of electronic administration to reach out to remote areas.

50. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, while noting that more progress could be done on civil and political rights, called on Bangladesh to ensure that the International Crimes Tribunal meet international legal standards, and also ensure the Rohingya's human rights. It urged to refrain from excessive use of force in dispersing demonstrations.

51. The United States of America commended promotion of women's participation in Government and the National Human Rights Commission acknowledgment that all individuals – including lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) individuals – should be protected from discrimination. While appreciating Bangladesh's willingness to address workers' safety and rights, it urged it to improve workers' conditions. It was concerned by political violence and impunity in the security forces.

52. Uruguay noted the ratification of the Rome Statute, the establishment of the International Crimes Tribunal, the strategy to combat corruption and the National Plan of Action to Combat Trafficking.

53. Uzbekistan noted Bangladesh progress in protecting human rights and fundamental freedoms; and wide reforms to the legislative, institutional and political mechanisms on human rights.
54. The Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela noted that Government action had reduced poverty by 8.5 per cent in just four years. It also noted the implementation of the National Plan of Action to Combat Trafficking.
55. Viet Nam appreciated Bangladesh's commitment to protect democracy, human rights and fundamental freedoms, and its achievements in promoting equality, poverty reduction and health care, in spite of challenges.
56. Yemen congratulated Bangladesh for improving its human rights and for legislating to strengthen political, social, civil and economic rights, especially of women, children and ethnic minorities. Bangladesh's national policies demonstrated its upholding of international commitments.
57. Zimbabwe noted (a) Bangladesh's efforts to protect human rights; (b) laws addressing the marginalized population rights; (c) policies on education, child labour elimination, children and women rights; and (d) access to justice measures.
58. Afghanistan noted the establishment of new Independent Commissions, the ratification of international conventions and new legislation to enhance civil, political, economic and cultural rights of its people. It commended Bangladesh for taking measures in regard to freedom of media, expression and assembly, fighting terrorism and protecting vulnerable groups.
59. Algeria noted adoption of laws on the right to information, prevention of domestic violence and cultural institutions for small ethnic groups. Algeria wished to know about the measures taken by the Government in view of strengthening of good governance and transparency.
60. Argentina congratulated Bangladesh for ratifying the Rome Statute and highlighted the creation of the National Legal Aid Services Organization.
61. The Minister appreciated the acknowledgment of her Government's achievements and development model by States while also recognizing the challenges and limitations.
62. The Minister responded that children under 18 years of age were outside the jurisdiction of the death penalty. The draft National Children Act addressed the issue of minimum age for criminal responsibility. She said the death penalty was not unique to Bangladesh and its application was restricted to the most serious and heinous crimes under due legal process and judicial safeguards. Bangladesh maintained an extremely low rate of death sentences, and with provision for parole.
63. The Minister reiterated that extrajudicial killing was not permitted by law and as per Penal Code, LEAs could resort to use of force or firearms only for self-defence and protection of public life and property. She said LEAs had to justify use of force or firearms as the means of last resort. She reported that the number of deaths during exchange of fire had been reduced by a large margin to 177 during 2009–2012 from 546 during the preceding five years, and that such deaths were only 0.34 per cent of total number of arrests.
64. The Minister said there was no scope for impunity for LEAs under Bangladeshi laws and the Codes of Conduct and Rules of Engagement of the concerned LEAs. Any incident of human rights violation or use of excessive or firearms was subject to investigation, prosecution, legal and disciplinary actions. The Minister reported that 1,678 Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) members had so far been subjected to prosecution and conviction, including imprisonment and dismissal.

65. The Minister said allegation of torture and ill-treatment needed to be substantiated with evidence. Police Regulation of Bengal, 1912 provided a number of safeguards for protection to inmates and prisoners from torture in custody. In case of any proof of torture through legal proceedings, stern departmental action was taken against those responsible. The Minister sought support from development partners to ongoing police reforms for an organizational shift towards a consultative and service-oriented policing where scope for ill-treatment or malpractice would be minimized.
66. The Minister disagreed with the suggestion that enforced disappearance was frequently used by LEAs and clarified that the term did not exist in Bangladeshi laws, which recognized kidnapping or abduction as cognizable offences. She underlined that the association of LEAs or State machinery with such criminal acts was deliberately done to undermine their credibility and create misperception in the public mind.
67. The Minister said the Government had rescinded rules and regulations that were considered to have impeded freedom of press and has withdrawn the provision of arrest for defamation from the Code of Criminal Procedure. The Government had ensured that all reported cases of violence against journalists were followed through with investigation and prosecution, and some had been brought to closure.
68. The Minister said that the Government championed the motto: Each unto his or her own religion, but the State belongs to all. She invited the Venerable Mahathero of Seema Bihar, Ramu to say a few words, who spoke on peace and communal harmony in the country.
69. The Minister informed that, in view of recent accidents in the ready-made garments (RMG) sector, the Government had, inter alia, started developing a National Occupational Safety and Health Policy, formed a Cabinet Committee on the RMG sector and was preparing ground for implementing Better Work Programme with the International Labour Organization (ILO).
70. She said that Bangladesh maintained its cooperation with the Special Procedure mechanisms and had confirmed dates for visits by three mandate holders later this year. On repealing Article 377 of Penal Code, the Minister underscored that laws in the country should be in harmony with social and religious mores, and that the Government did not condone discrimination against any individual on any pretext.
71. The Minister said that the draft National Children Act, 2012 would internalize CRC provisions.
72. She briefed the meeting about women's enhanced political empowerment, entrepreneurship and economic entitlements, including gender-sensitive labour laws and maternity benefits. She discussed six new laws to combat violence against women and steps taken to prevent sexual harassment and acid-related violence.
73. Australia was concerned at the losses of life, injuries and damages to religious sites and property in the most recent confrontations. It called on the Government to continue to allow provision of essential humanitarian assistance to Rohingya refugees.
74. Austria commended the Rome Statute ratification in 2010 and the adoption of the 2011 National Women's Advancement Development Policy. It welcomed the juvenile courts establishment.
75. Azerbaijan highlighted the country's accession to the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families (ICRMW) and the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organized Crimes, and others.

76. Belarus underlined the active interaction with the Human Rights Council Special Procedures. It welcomed the Government's commitment to fight human trafficking.
77. Bahrain commended Bangladesh on adopting legislation and a National Action Plan to combat trafficking in persons and on implementing a health, population and nutrition development programme. It noted that Bangladesh was on track to meet MDG-4.
78. Benin noted, among others, adoption of several laws and regulatory texts in the field of human rights and the rights of women and children. Benin encouraged Bangladesh to continue action in the framework of fight against impunity and corruption, money laundering and abolition of the death penalty.
79. Bhutan noted the establishment of numerous domestic legislative frameworks and institutional mechanisms to enhance the protection of rights of the most vulnerable such as women, children, persons with disabilities and minorities.
80. The Plurinational State of Bolivia praised the adoption of new policies for the elimination of child labour, education, the development of women and for building wells free from arsenic throughout the country.
81. Botswana highlighted the country's significant progress in the promotion and protection of human rights against many challenges and despite resources constraints. It encouraged the international community to lend its support in this regard.
82. Brazil encouraged Bangladesh to keep implementing poverty reduction policies. It praised the primary education system with phenomenal results achieved in enrolment rates and gender parity. Brazil noted the upcoming adoption of the national Children Draft Act.
83. Brunei Darussalam welcomed the achievement of the MDG-2 target of gender parity in primary and secondary enrolments. It noted the country's efforts to meet the MDG target of halving the population living under poverty.
84. Burundi congratulated Bangladesh on (a) the establishment of a National Human Rights Commission; (b) policies on access to health care, free education, particularly for girls, and prisons' overcrowding; and (c) its engagement to include women in decision-making public positions. It urged Bangladesh to eliminate child labour.
85. Cambodia commended the ratification of most core international treaties and conventions, including the Rome Statute. It praised Bangladesh's progress in poverty eradication and democracy consolidation.
86. Canada asked about progress made and steps taken to ensure and fully guarantee judicial independence as well on the involved time frames, as agreed in 2009.
87. Chad noted with satisfaction that Bangladesh had consulted all stakeholders in elaborating its national report. It also noted the normative and institutional reforms undertaken to reinforce its mechanisms of promotion and protection of human rights.
88. Chile asked if Bangladesh had considered reassessing norms permitting the imposition of the death penalty and life imprisonment to minors under 18 years of age.
89. China commended the achievements in human rights in Bangladesh. It highlighted policies to drastically reduce poverty and attached importance to women's development and measures to protect women from violence. China understood the challenges faced by Bangladesh as a result of natural disasters.
90. Costa Rica welcomed the adoption of measures to combat trafficking and efforts made on climate change and disaster management. It was concerned about allegations of impunity for torture.

91. Côte d'Ivoire highlighted the ratification of international conventions and adoption of new human rights legal provisions. It noted Bangladesh's weakness to combat women discrimination in the fields of health, employment, justice and education.
92. Cuba underlined the Government's commitment to human rights. It highlighted positive results in poverty reduction, food security, jobs creation, universal health care, education for all and other social protection programmes.
93. Cyprus acknowledged efforts made to prevent violence against women and their better integration in the labour market. It expressed appreciation for the 2011 adoption of the National Women Development Policy.
94. The Czech Republic expressed appreciation for the comprehensive report on measures taken in the human rights area and commended Bangladesh for the progress made in institutional protection of human rights.
95. Denmark commended the advances on the Chittagong Hill Tracts Peace Accord underlining that many provisions had yet to be implemented. It highlighted considerable progress in ensuring gender equality since the 1990s.
96. Djibouti congratulated Bangladesh's remarkable contribution in the Human Rights Council reinforcement. It called on the international community to support Bangladesh in progressively implementing human rights as announced in its Vision Program 2021.
97. Ecuador asked what measures had been adopted over the previous four years to guarantee access to justice by the poor and most vulnerable sectors of society.
98. Egypt noted that Bangladesh's legal and institutional measures reflected its commitment to promote and protect human rights. It commended its enhancement of women's and children's rights, education, food security, judicial independence, its eradication of impunity and its accession to international instruments.
99. Finland welcomed Bangladesh's efforts to combat violence against women, but was concerned about its persistence and women's difficulties in accessing justice, and its possible withdrawal of reservations to the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW). It asked what further developments were envisaged therein.
100. France thanked the delegation for presenting its report and welcomed the ratification of the Rome Statute.
101. Germany welcomed Bangladesh's measures to combat discrimination and violence against women, police misconduct and impunity, but noted little change on the ground.
102. Guatemala welcomed Bangladesh's legislation on vagrants and homeless rehabilitation, trafficking in persons, control of pornography and policies on eradicating child labour, children's rights, protection of domestic workers and women's development.
103. The Holy See highlighted Bangladesh's work to protect human rights and encouraged it to continue the improvement of the judicial, police, military and prison systems in line with international standards.
104. Hungary commended Bangladesh for its high educational priority and corresponding budget, but said that results could be improved by constitutionalizing the right to education, as was done for secularism. It noted Bangladesh's remarkable achievements in gender parity and women's empowerment.
105. India congratulated Bangladesh on separating its judiciary from its executive, its progress in child survival, its National Women's Development Policy and Digital Bangladesh, which contributed to democratizing governance. It commended Bangladesh for its commitment to fight terrorism and extremism.

106. Indonesia applauded Bangladesh for its robust normative and institutional reforms since 2009. It welcomed its many positive measures in favour of groups requiring special protection and its steps to maintain a “zero tolerance” policy towards human rights violation.

107. The Islamic Republic of Iran commended Bangladesh for its significant progress in promoting and protecting human rights since the UPR 1st cycle and its multiple initiatives, especially in the areas of health care and child mortality.

108. Iraq congratulated Bangladesh on acceding to the CRPD since the UPR 1st cycle and on its efforts related to human rights, health and education. It asked what measures had been taken to strengthen gender equality.

109. Ireland welcomed Bangladesh’s ratification of the Rome Statute, its efforts to address prison overcrowding and its leading role in Climate Change and Human Rights. It encouraged Bangladesh to establish a moratorium on executions.

110. Italy noted with apprehension that child labour, sexual violence and exploitation remained widespread in Bangladesh. It welcomed the National Education Policy and the draft Children’s Act, which prohibited the death penalty for minors.

111. Japan applauded Bangladesh’s enhancement of NHRC functions and its empowerment of women. It welcomed its “zero tolerance” policy on human rights violations. It encouraged it to submit reports to treaty bodies, including the Committee Against Torture (CAT) and the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (CESCR).

112. Jordan commended Bangladesh for its efforts to promote and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms, especially its ratification of international conventions and strengthening of its institutional framework through Human Rights, Anti-corruption and National Election Commissions.

113. Kyrgyzstan noted Bangladesh’s reforms to strengthen its legislative, institutional and policy mechanisms, especially in combatting human trafficking, smuggling and related crimes, and its draft legislation to protect persons with disabilities.

114. Latvia appreciated Bangladesh’s invitation to several special procedures mandate holders, but noted that a significant number of requests had not yet been accepted. It welcomed its ratification of the ICC Rome Statute.

115. Lebanon recognized Bangladesh’s sincere efforts to strengthen human rights through new laws, policies and practices, and to uphold its obligations to implement UPR 1st cycle recommendations.

116. Libya valued Bangladesh’s policy aimed at strengthening cooperation with international law and respect for human rights, evidenced by its ratification of various international instruments. It welcomed its efforts to improve occupational safety and access to health care, its increased education budget and implementation of its 2010 education strategy.

117. Malaysia commended Bangladesh for its continued commitment to improve the human rights situation and its significant progress in health, education, poverty reduction, women’s and children’s rights.

118. Maldives welcomed Bangladesh’s adoption of laws aimed at promoting human rights and appreciated its efforts to cooperate with Special Procedures and Mandate Holders. Maldives commend the Government for its achievements, given the number of challenges it faced, and was encouraged by its commitment to further enhance human rights in the country.

119. Mauritania noted that Bangladesh's report and replies to questions reflected the importance given to strengthening institutional and legislative frameworks for promoting human rights in the country. It valued the many procedures and significant measures adopted by Bangladesh, specifically in relation to ethnic minorities and child labour.

120. Mexico acknowledged Bangladesh's cooperation with the international human rights system and invited it to continue cooperation with Special procedures. It urged to increase the National Human Rights Commission financial and human resources. It made recommendations.

121. The Minister expressed concern over the recent political violence and heavy casualties suffered by police personnel as they used maximum restraint to contain violence. She said that the regressive forces would not be allowed to reverse the progress made so far. She appreciated the international community's support to the ongoing trials of the perpetrators of crimes against humanity and genocide in 1971. She gave an account of the rights of the accused under the ICT Act, 1973 to ensure due process and fair trial.

122. The Minister said Bangladesh would remain committed to upholding family values and tradition as well as human rights of all individuals. The Minister informed that an Anti-Discrimination Law was in the offing to protect the rights of socially marginalized groups, who were also covered under Social Safety Net Programmes.

123. She highlighted the protection and assistance to Rohingya refugees from Myanmar, including their education in the native Myanmar language, food, nutrition, potable water, sanitation, medical facilities, skill development and security. The Government was currently developing a comprehensive policy to address the protracted Rohingya refugee situation.

124. She said that the Government had taken policy initiatives in conformity with articles 2 and 16(c) (1) of CEDAW, while reviewing the withdrawal of reservations on the same. She said that there was no difference between men and women regarding acquisition, enjoyment and disposal of property, individually or jointly, during marriage.

125. The Minister briefed about anti-trafficking measures in Bangladesh, including a comprehensive legislation and a National Plan of Action 2012–2014.

126. The Minister said that Bangladesh's consideration of ratification of ILO Convention 169 would need to be contextualized within the parameters of the Constitutional provision. The Small Ethnic Groups Cultural Institutions Act, 2010 had been enacted to preserve and promote the cultural identity of the ethnic minorities. She said the draft CHT Land Commission (Amendment) Act, 2013 was at the final stage through consultation with the CHT Regional Council. She discussed the status of implementation of the CHT Accord and the development activities undertaken in the previous four year, including education, health-care and sanitation services.

127. The Minister said that ratification of OP-CAT was under consideration but a decision could be facilitated following Bangladesh's submission of a Period Report to the Treaty Body and assessment of its capacity to fulfill obligations under the instrument.

128. The Minister reaffirmed Bangladesh's commitment to the UPR process and expressed her appreciation to National Human Rights Commission, NGOs, civil society, media, as well as States participating in the interactive debate, Troika, Secretariat, the interpreters and Council President for their cooperation.

II. Conclusions and/or recommendations

129. The recommendations listed below enjoy the support of Bangladesh:
- 129.1. Sign and ratify the new Optional Protocol to CRC on a communications procedure (Slovakia); Accede to the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a communications procedure at the earliest opportunity (Maldives);
 - 129.2. Consider acceding to CPED and OP-CAT (Peru); Consider the possibility of ratifying CPED, the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees and its Protocol, and OP-CAT (Argentina);
 - 129.3. Consider ratifying the conventions on refugees and stateless persons and passing national legislation on refugees and stateless persons (Sierra Leone);
 - 129.4. Continue efforts to harmonize its normative framework with international human rights norms to which the country has acceded, particularly those concerning the rights of the child (Nicaragua);
