

180,100

Direct beneficiaries

750,000

Estimated indirect beneficiaries

77,609

People benefiting from activities aimed at establishing a favorable protection environment

61,721

People supported to meet their basic needs and access essential services

22,461

People benefiting from interventions related to community empowerment and to improved self-reliance

14,578

People benefiting from activities to ensure safety from violence and exploitation

2,513

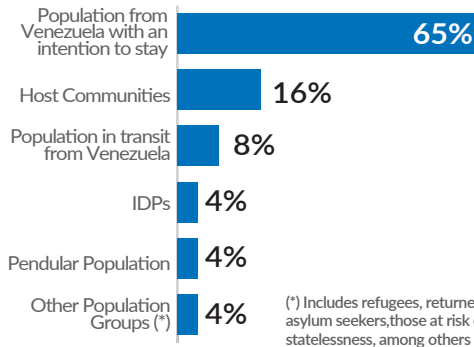

People benefiting from activities that ensure access to fair protection and documentation processes

1,221

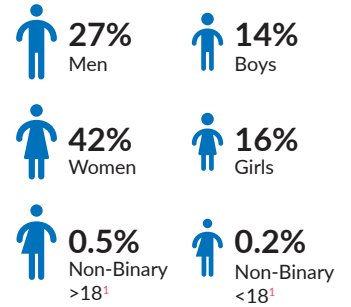

People benefiting from activities in support of durable solutions

The COVID-19 pandemic has compounded the challenges faced by Colombia in managing the large scale movement of Venezuelan refugees and migrants and its own internal conflict, which persists despite the 2016 peace agreement. In the first four months of 2021, UNHCR reinforced and complemented local and national efforts to respond to the humanitarian needs associated with these challenges. UNHCR's interventions sought to mobilize protection and opportunities for refugees and internally displaced people (IDPs) to access rights and meet basic needs. Efforts were also made to empower all people of concern to UNHCR and, at the same time, to strengthen the capacity of local and national institutions to provide protection and assistance.

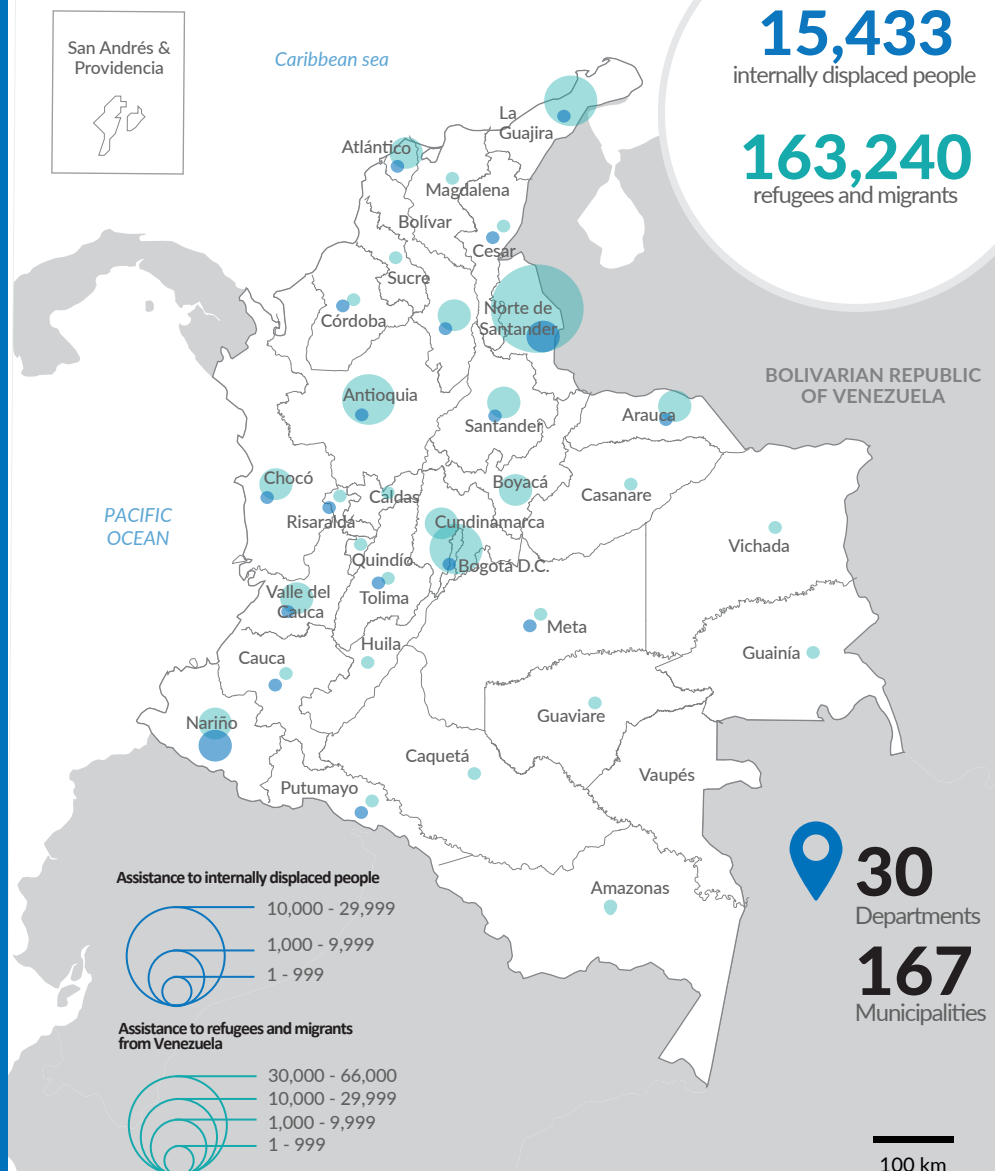

UNHCR Beneficiaries

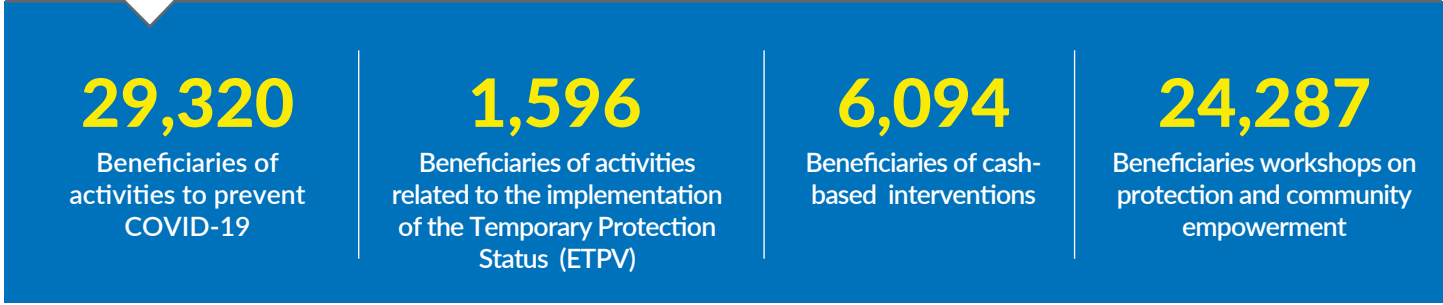

Disaggregation

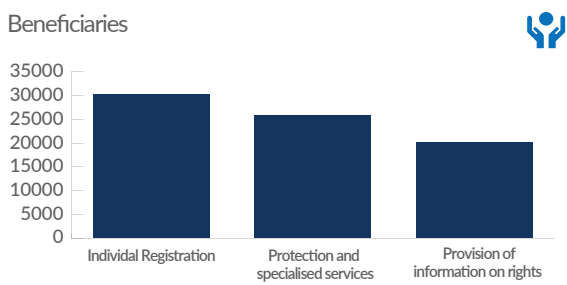

Geographic location of beneficiaries

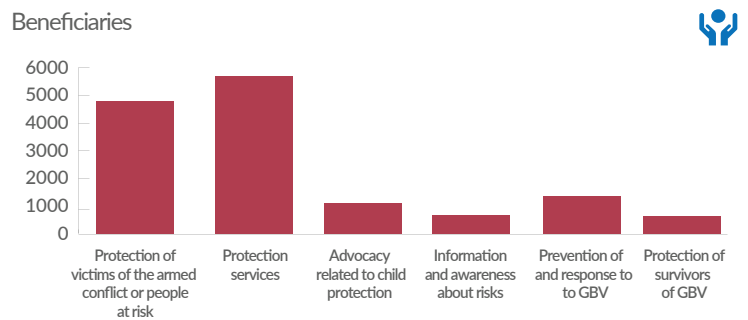

UNHCR's interventions seek to empower and help refugees and IDPs to access rights and meet basic needs. UNHCR also promotes a safe and protective environment for all persons of concern, alongside their inclusion and opportunities to pursue durable solutions.

Favorable protection environment

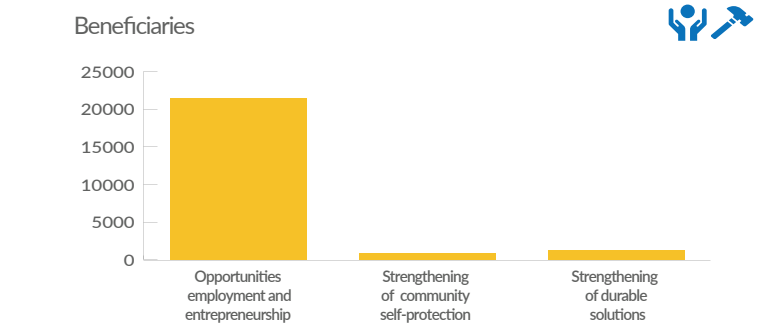

Protection against violence and exploitation

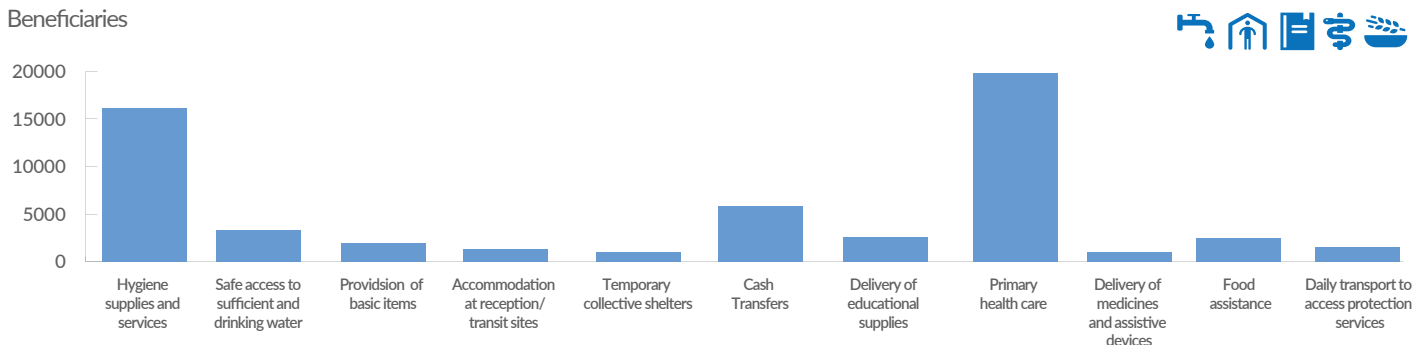

Access to justice and documentation

Community empowerment and self-sufficiency

Basic needs and essential services

Other interventions

